

New Product-Bringing you closer to: 'Living in Harmony with Nature'.

Andrea Hall, a good friend and an experienced and expert Interior designer, has come across a new flooring product which is gaining lot of popularity in many parts of the world. From Feng Shui point of view, it is likely to bring you closer to 'Living in Harmony with Nature'.

It is new to the UK but has been making a mark in Europe since a year. There is a large library of images on its website listed below to give you an idea of how beautiful it really is. The testimonial is in the image.

This amazing product is about to splash into the UK in a big way. Bolefloor is a revolutionary product in many ways; it started from an IT company writing computer programs with algorithms that set the stage for a new manufacturing process for wooden floors.

The trees are scanned and each piece catalogued in a vast library of these wooden planks, which are not straight like traditional flooring. They follow the natural curve of the tree, a "living edge". This means that the flooring uses significantly more of the wood than a traditional straight plank, giving it excellent Eco credentials which in this day and age are always beneficial.

When a floor is ordered, the Dutch designers find the most economical fit for the planks based on the customers' requirements, wood type, plank length & the width. Bolefloor can come in lengths of a whopping 6m and 450mm wide. It arrives on the site like a huge jigsaw puzzle, with easy to follow codes and instructions and no cutting is required. This means that the installation time is reduced too.

There have been many installations in Europe including Benetton, United Nations headquarters and it is just starting to emerge in the UK in places such as Paul Smith shops London. There are additional products from 'Boleform' which allow the wood to be used for a variety of other applications like furniture and walling surface.

The curves are very naturalistic and feminine, helping to balance out the so often masculine square, metal and glass structures we find ourselves living and working around. The flooring gives a harmonious feel to a room, a sense of meandering through a woodland path. The feeling of the 'chi' It visually creates, provides harmony, balance and peace in any environment.
